

Bonus (2 p): Get creative and design a phenolphthalein derivative (a molecule with the same backbone but added/modified substituents) that would change color at a lower pH than phenolphthalein. Show the structure and rationalize your design choices!

b) Histidine is one of the most common amino acids in active and binding sites of proteins. This is believed